"A Bill of Divorcement" Staged As Climax of Senior Week-End

Elmer Schmitt, Nancy Pugh Star
In Lead Roles of Drama
Saturday Night

PRODUCTION WELL RECEIVED

"A Bill of Divorcement", presented in the Gymnasium Saturday night, proved a fitting climax to the activities of the annual senior week-end. The play was well received by a fairly large audience.

The scene of Clemence Dane's three-act drama is a small house in the English countryside. The time is Christmas Day, 1933.

The events in the story center about a home, the father of which has been confined to an insane asylum since the war, put there because of shell shock. Matters become seriously complicated when he suddenly returns home cured, only to find that his wife, who believed his malady incurable, had become engaged to another man during his absence. An only daughter, young and independent, makes possible the completion of her mother's plans when she sacrifices her own love affair to live with and care for her hitherto unknown father.

Schmitt, Pugh Play Leads

The entire cast turned in a very creditable performance, but an injustice would be done if special mention were not made of the work of Elmer Schmitt and Nancy Pugh in the lead roles of Hilary and Sydney Fairfield. Schmitt, playing the part of the formerly insane father, rose to the necessary heights in the tense dramatic scenes, while acting smoothly throughout. Although both Miss Pugh and Mr. Schmitt are newcomers to the Ursinus stage, much credit is due them for a polished piece of work.

Virginia Garrett, in the role of the perplexed wife, although lacking in stage experience, proved herself capable of rendering the part, as did also Pauline Heffler in the part of the maid.

No remarks need be made of the work of Donald Ohl, Montgomery Weidner, Jr., Henry Schaeffer, William Solly, and Elizabeth Evans. The caliber of their former performances was repeated.

According to a consensus of student opinion, "A Bill of Divorcement" was very well liked. Remarks ranged from "very good" to "the best in recent years". A preference was expressed, in most cases, for the tense type of drama over the light comedy.

The play was coached by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sibbald. Between acts, music was furnished by the Ursinus College Orchestra under the direction of Mr. William Philip.

Del Regis Orchestra Furnishes
Music for Annual Senior Ball

OVER 100 COUPLES ARE PRESENT

More than 100 couples attended the annual senior ball in the Thompson-Gay Gymnasium Friday night. Del Regis and his thirteen-piece broadcasting orchestra furnished music for the occasion.

Dancing continued from 9:00 until 1:00 amid surroundings in keeping with the Christmas spirit. Red and white crepe paper with a chandelier in the center to match, pine on a red background at the windows, and a ceiling of white completed the decorations.

Chaperones for the affair were: Dean Elizabeth B. White, Dean Whorten A. Kline, Prof. and Mrs. J. Harold Brownback, Dr. and Mrs. Philip B. Willauer, Miss Sara Mary Ouderkerk, Mr. William S. Pettit, Miss Bertha F. Bier, and Mr. Eugene Miller.

The committee in charge consisted of Mark Stoudt, chairman, Virginia Garrett, Helen Laubenstein, Alma Ludwig, Mildred Peterman, Jessie Wilson, Clifford Calvert, Fuller Grenawalt, Lachman Rinehart, and Arnold Wynne.

Dr Yost, Jr. Reviews First Lantern Issue

Groff and McBride Contribute
Best of Fiction, Poetry

EDITORS NEED MANUSCRIPTS

The December issue of The Lantern, the College literary magazine, which has just appeared on the campus this week, follows the issues of preceding years in the character, the proportion, and the quality of its contents. The general impression given by the fiction, poetry, serious articles, and odd bits of prose presented in the current number is like that of previous numbers, and the casual reader will find no great surprises, but he will find some new names in the table of contents and he will find several contributions which deserve his attention.

Of the fiction the best and most striking story is "A Portly Gentleman Intrudes" by Vernon Groff '38. Except for the inclusion of a few insignificant details, this story is well done and does convey to the reader the hypnotic effects of great heights upon the human brain. "The Tree" by Edward French '38 is interesting, but perhaps goes a little beyond the probabilities of life. "Ah Childhood" by Richard Yahraes '38 has one clever idea in it, but the title is too accurate. One hopes to see more work by this trio of sophomore fictionalists.

By far the most ambitious and most significant poetry in this issue is "Clouds in a Hot, Red Sky" by Elizabeth McBride '36. Inspired by and directed at the present conflict in Africa, it combines modern realism with a little of the atmosphere of William Blake. Dorothea Benner '38 contributes a well planned.

Dr Harner to Speak At Third Open Forum

Lancaster Theologian Has Had Varied Career with Youth

DATE SET AT DECEMBER 15TH

The third Open Forum will be held on Sunday afternoon, December 15. In order to provide sufficient time for the question and answer period, the time of the meeting has been set at 3:30 p. m. Dr. Nevin C. Harner, who is professor of Religious Education at the Theological Seminary of the Evangelical and Reformed Church at Lancaster, Pa., will use as his topic "The Function of Religion in a Changing World." This topic was chosen to harmonize with Christmas celebrations of this month. Following his address of approximately forty-five minutes, Dr. Harner will answer questions which arise from the floor.

Dr. Harner, who is in demand as a speaker all over the East, was graduated from Franklin and Marshall College, and the Theological Seminary at Lancaster. He was awarded the degree, Doctor of Philosophy at Columbia University, since which time he has engaged in religious education at the Seminary in Lancaster. Dr. Harner is the author of numerous articles in his special field, and is looked upon as one of the outstanding leaders of young people's work, as well as a leader of the church as a whole. FAMOUS JAPANESE CHRISTIAN TO SPEAK IN PHILADELPHIA

Group of Ursinus Students to Hear
Toyohiko Kagawa

Toyohiko Kagawa, outstanding Japanese Christian, is scheduled to be in Philadelphia on January 22. He will address a group of college students in the First Baptist Church at four o'clock in the afternoon, and will speak again in the evening. A delegation of Ursinus students will attend these meetings. Students who wish to be included in the party are requested to get in touch with Professor Sheeder.

Kagawa is said to be one of the most remarkable men of this generation. He is so much in demand that if he had the strength and the time it is stated that he could speak in some American town every day for the next five years and then not exhaust the eagerness that exists to hear him. His present visit to America will begin next week when he arrives in San Francisco and will extend to July, when he is to return to Japan by way of Scandinavia and Siberia.

His primary interest is on behalf of cooperatives. It is on this subject primarily that he will address American and Canadian audiences for the next six months.

LEBANON VALLEY FIRST GAME

With a squad of twenty candidates reporting for practice, Coach Hashagen began drills last week as a first move toward turning out the 1935-36 Grizzly court team.

Co-Captains Calvert and Grenawalt, along with Heiges, Costello, Tworzydlo and Lauer, all members of last year's varsity squad form the nucleus around which the team will be built.

Coming up from last season's freshman squad are Reiff, Vaccaro, Van Tries, and Bodley, all making bids for positions.

The remainder of the candidates consists of Baker, Davison, E. Gauder, Jakomas, Rahn, Schaffer, Worster, Porambo, Quay, and Trumbore.

The coming season will be Hashagen's first year as Grizzly court mentor. He succeeds Ralph "Horse" Chase. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was an outstanding member of the varsity basketball team for several years.

Judging by the drills through which Hashagen has been putting his proteges, the 1935-36 Ursinus team will be a fast-moving aggregation, depending to a great extent on a fast and deceptive passing game.

The Bears open their season at home when they meet Lebanon Valley on January 8, followed by Gettysburg and Albright on the home court before final examinations. Twelve of the thirteen games are league tilts.

Clawson and Johnson to Attend Collegiate Athletic Confabs

Dr. John W. Clawson and Russell C. Johnson, Director of Athletics, will attend several athletic conferences and meetings in the near future. On December 7 in Harrisburg, the Eastern Collegiate Conference will convene in its annual winter meeting.

A week later, December 14, there will be an all-day meeting of the Middle Atlantic Inter-collegiate Athletic Conference, at which twenty-five colleges and universities of the east will be represented. Preceding this conference the M. A. Football and Basketball Associations will hold separate meetings at which forth-coming schedules will be discussed.

NOTE OF SYMPATHY

The Weekly joins the entire student body, faculty, and administration in extending to Evelyn Webber '36, their deepest sympathy in her recent bereavement.

TWENTY-SIX GET LETTERS

Raymond A. Costello '37, of Burlington, N. J., was elected captain of the 1936 Ursinus College football team by the lettermen of the 1935 squad. Originally a guard, Costello was shifted to the backfield at the beginning of the past season, where, although handicapped by injuries, he developed into an excellent blocker and ball carrier. He succeeds Herman Bassman, fullback, and John Grimm, guard, who were the first co-captains to lead an Ursinus team. Costello is in the History-Social Science group and is a member of the Zeta Chi fraternity.

Paul W. Lauer '37, Red Lion, Pa., was elected varsity manager and Joseph A. Concello '37, Chester, Pa., freshman manager. Assistant managers elected were George H. Faunce '38, and Douglas Mertz '38.

Letters in football were awarded to the following twenty-six men: Herman Bassman, Vincent J. Bonkoski, Eugene J. Bradford, J. Justus Bodley, Clifford D. Calvert Jr., Raymond A. Costello, Charles J. Dresch, Albert R. Gauder, John E. Davison, Harold B. Gensler, Fuller H. Grenawalt, John G. Grimm, Andrew J. Jakomas, Norris A. Johnson, Henry M. Kweicinski, Rubin Levin, Joseph J. Lipka, Gordon H. Lamore, G. Sieber Pancoast, John J. Porambo, F. Lachman Rinehart, Francis R. Tworzydlo, Kenneth T. Wildonger, J. Clayton Worster, Alexander R. Clawson (manager) and John H. Brown Jr. (manager.)

CONFERENCE DROPS FROSH SPRING SPORTS RULING

First Year Students to Be Allowed
In Baseball, Track

College freshmen may participate in all spring sports this year as a result of a resolution adopted at the fall meeting of the Inter-collegiate Athletic Conference at Harrisburg, Saturday. R. C. Johnson and Dr. John Clawson represented Ursinus at the meeting.

This action was taken to save spring sports where the enforcement of the freshman rule made the formation of separate teams difficult or impossible.

The prerequisites for freshman participation is the successful completion of one and one-half semesters of college scholastic work.

By the new ruling, the regular freshman baseball team will be eliminated. According to Mr. Johnson, the probability is that a junior varsity will be formed whose members may still play on the varsity squad. The only change to the track team will be added strength because of participation of first-year men.

This action by the Conference will be especially helpful to the smaller schools because of the difficulties they ordinarily encounter in finances and numbers for teams.

CHOOSING A SUCCESSOR

With the resignation of President Omwake, Ursinus faces a loss which is two-fold in its major aspects. Not only is the College losing a leader who was alert and aggressive, but it is now faced with the problem of selecting a successor to carry on the work where Dr. Omwake leaves off.

During Dr. Omwake's administration the size and development of Ursinus increased remarkably. His forceful and intelligent effort is largely responsible for the place of importance and esteem that the school now holds in the collegiate world. Many new buildings were added, both faculty and enrollment greatly increased, many new courses covering a wide range were introduced, and the endowment and assets of the College grew out of all proportion. This progressive record stands as a tribute to Dr. Omwake as a leader and a President, and his resignation places the College in the difficult position of choosing a successor who can fill his office.

The College can not stand still, it must move on. In entrusting its most important and politic position, the College must choose a man of the same strength and direction of the leader it is losing. His attributes must be not only those of an educator but he must also have close contact with other fields. This is the problem now before the College: to find a successor, able and fitted to carry on the development so definitely begun by Dr. Omwake. Any let-down will be more serious now after a prominent position has been attained, than it would have been before Ursinus had reached its wide-spread recognition.

COLLEGIATE SPOTLIGHT

The prize quip of the week seems to go to the Bucknell co-ed who said: "Remind me to ignore you tomorrow." But if you didn't like that, we hope this next one suits you better. A girl from Purdue says that her mother gave her her first front door key when she was seventeen because her mother got tired of having her knock down the milk bottles climbing through the pantry window.

The next item of interest that the spotlight singles out comes from the University of Idaho. It seems they conducted another survey out there,—this time to determine the hobbies of the students. Some of those given were: collecting earrings from live owners; hunting worms; apple polishing (soft-soaping the profs to you, frosh); star gazing; strolling in the moonlight; "wine, women, and Sing Sing"; and agitating for homes for aged chorus girls. But we're sadly afraid the students out there didn't take this survey in the serious spirit in which it was given, with the possible exception of the 173 who listed marriage as a future hobby.

The latest story on the absent minded professor comes from Wabash College. On returning home he found a woman in bed, and asked her why she was there. He received the answer: "Well, I like this bed, I like this neighborhood, I like this house, and I like this room. And anyway, I'm your wife."

At the University of Paris a course is offered in "Rare Wines and Liquors." Perhaps that is one of the cultural appreciation courses we so often hear about. But who couldn't appreciate a course like that?

The Lehigh Brown and White has a new way to determine student opinion. Each week a senior writes a letter of constructive criticism and at the end of the letter names the one who is to write the letter the following week.

Muhlenberg College is considering a system of proctors to rule over the dormitories, because of recent disturbances and rowdiness. Take heed, Curtis!

At Ohio State University, the student bar association offers free legal aid to any student involved in a scrape with the law. The idea may be all right but we notice they don't guarantee an acquittal.

A gift of 300 books from the Italian government was recently accepted by Johns Hopkins University. An expected anti-Fascist demonstration by students failed to materialize.

In order to be chairman of the Junior Prom at Pitt University, you must first file a petition, then be interviewed by the Committee on Appointments, after which the final selection is made by another committee. Just like getting a real job.

GRIZZLY GLEANINGS

Dear Mary Dormitory:

So you want me to write an editorial to get you girls a smoking room? Pumphouse Annex, is it? Well, well, well!

And you wrote a letter to me about it in the Weekly several weeks ago, eh? And you called me Eddie darling, and Eddie Weddie, didn't you?

Well, its all off, see! You don't get no Pumphouse Annex.

And furthermore, we don't want to see you girls down behind the pumphouse anymore. It's a disgrace, that's what it is. A disgrace. An abominable, intolerable disgrace.

What do you suppose other people think? When outsiders and laymen pass, or visitors are on campus, what kind of impression do they get when they see the Ursinus co-eds lounging surreptitiously behind the pumphouse fondling Lady Nicotine?

Tch, tch, tch! Why, they condemn the College, that's what they do. They condemn the College, for not allowing you to smoke in your rooms.

But is it the College's fault? Is it? Why, certainly it is not. And for good reasons it is not. For the simple reason that there exists a subsidiary of the College on Main Street, Collegeville, which is called Winkler's. Should it be necessary for the College to allow you to pervade your dormitories with dense clouds of vicious smoke, and in such manner to lower the moral standards of the institution, when there exists the excellent alternative of patronizing Doc, the Collegeville Druggist, Ph D?

We take the liberty of answering No. All that you have to do is go to Doc's Rear Rest and Refreshment Room, make believe you are hungry, then order a coke, and sip it leisurely and absorbedly.

It is only necessary to order a coke, for Doc does not keep that room to make money. He has it as a favor to college students.

Then while you are taking a sip once every five minutes, it will be natural for you to light a Murad between draughts. In such wise you can satisfy a double desire.

And what is more important, you can satisfy the desire without jeopardizing the sacred honor of Ursinus womanhood.

Is it not worth it, Mary? Have I not brought a lump to your larynx?

Well, I think I have explained myself sufficiently. Goodbye.

The Editor of the Weekly.

P. S. And don't call me Eddie Weddie anymore.

The "Dumb Democratic Confederate", alias James Smith, came through with the prize tid-bit of the week, when he mistook "color added" on an orange for "Color-ada" and spent the whole meal arguing that oranges were not grown in Colorado. A psychology professor here says feeble-minded persons are the best bed-makers, for after they have been taught one approved way of making a bed, they simply haven't the originality to make it another way. If the converse is true, Brodbeck must have a couple of geniuses.

Here's a new and unusual description of a capitalist stereotype: "A person with an endowed sort of stomach."

Election News!!

"Chicken" Wynkoop was unanimously elected captain of the 1936 cross-country team. A total of one vote was cast.

Proposition: "Every book is, at its best, a self-revelation of its author. Proof: See "Ah, Childhood!" in the Lantern by Richard "Adolescent" Yahraes. Autobiographical, Dick? Does Shreiner or Easton hold the mysterious Eleanor Du Telle?

It was a hilarious party, but still it had a touch of sadness. I refer to the farewell party given by Freeland for their departing comrade, "Shipp" Lyons, the towering mistake. The party broke up when the present from Brodbeck arrived.

We can overlook the actions of the Freeland freshmen, but how about the party that was held at Shreiner last week?

The way some of the Rec Hall Romeos dance, they should be in good shape for the ice-skating season. Others appear to show the effects of having eaten too many Mexican jumping-beans.

Incidentally, it was hard to recognize the "rec-hallers" at the Senior Ball until the dancing started.

At this gigantic affair, it was noticed that the stiff shirts held up better than the suffering humans who were in them.

It is fortunate (?) for the English students that the football season is over and a pair of crutches can be spared.

RAMBLING at RANDOM

This is a dissertation upon a tux shirt, that bane of all men who are forced to dress formally upon occasion. Why anyone has to go to all the trouble necessary to encase himself in a starched front and collar in order to appear well-dressed and to live uncomfortably for a few hours has always been a mystery to me. Besides the necessity and trial of the above enclosure, other supplementary actions, such as crawling around on the floor beneath the bed or the bureau in the futile search for the fallen cuff link or shirt stud, make the process even more painful.

Yet the tux shirt is often typical of the society which commands its usage. It puts on a smart appearance while hiding a background of the cheapest texture procurable. It is all front with little behind it, like the beautiful but dumb that we read about so often. It is also comparable to the decorations that adorn the walls of our gymnasium on the occasions of its most popular usage. For behind the elaborately decorated walls and ceiling lie the bare whitewashed stone of a cold and dismal interior. Perhaps it is for these reasons that some person, with a hatred or jealousy of the social rich, at one time designed the outfit now required for formal wear, deeming it the most representative costume for the "social lion."

I suppose it would not look quite right if everyone went to the social highlight of the season dressed in everyday clothes, but it would at least be far more comfortable. And in the final analysis, a well-made suit of fine cloth along with a moderately expensive cravat and a shirt that was soft, yet of the same linen texture throughout, would be no worse than a false front, a tuxedo rented or borrowed from someone else, and decorated with five and ten cent store pearl studs and cuff links. As long as human nature demands an outlet for its desire to put on a good show, however, I suppose we radicals can get nowhere.

IN INTERDORM PLAYOFF

Rivals to Play Post-Season Game
To Decide Championship

The play-off between the winners of each half of the Inter-dorm touch-football schedule, Brodbeck, the winner of the first half, and Derr, the second half winners, ended in a scoreless tie, Tuesday afternoon. The championship game was to decide the holder of the football trophy.

With both teams presenting their full strength, the game proved to be the best exhibition of football of the season. Neither team was able to supply the necessary punch to score, although Brodbeck threatened in the latter part of the fourth quarter after a substantial march of about 75 yards to the 18 yard line. Here, Derr braced to make a gallant stand, gaining possession of the ball on their own 20 yard line. The punting of both teams was instrumental as a ground gainer with Derr holding the edge.

In order to decide the ultimate champion, another game will be played on Patterson field, Tuesday afternoon, December 10.

"GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL"

THE TOWERS OF MANHATTAN

from a new angle—New York's new Triborough Bridge, which is rapidly being completed. In the foreground: Howard Hougland, McClintic-Marshall engineer, wearing the picturesque engineers' "hard hat," a necessary protection on big jobs. "An engineer's life," he says, "calls for physical fitness and energy. When my pep is at low ebb, there's nothing like a Camel, for a Camel chases away all signs of tiredness. I always get a 'lift' with a Camel. I have preferred Camels for years because of their good taste and mildness. They never irritate my throat. That's one way you can tell Camels are made from more expensive tobaccos."

TOBACCOS!

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO

At work and at play there always comes a time when it's pleasant to heed the famous advice: "Get a 'lift' with a Camel!" For Camels increase your flow of energy. And Camels are mild—a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Your first Camel tastes good. And so does every other one. Costlier tobaccos do make a difference.

Dr. Vost, Jr. Gives Impressions Of December Lantern Issue

ned and pleasant piece of "Winds", "Pictures in the Sky" is by the same author. The issue contains several other bits of poetry, "Exultation" and "In Absolution" by "Nella" and "Emptiness" by Roberta Byron '39, which perhaps aim a little too high. The ordinary reader will turn with relief and undisguised pleasure to the latest effort of Ursinus's Arthur Guiterman, Mitchell Fenimore '37. "From Brain to Brawn" is not poetry, but it is well done.

In the current issue one finds two short prose writings which lie on the borderline between imaginative prose and expository prose. The one is a color etching in words of twilight and evening, "Midnight Clouds" by Richard Yahraes '38, the other a completely realized presentation in dramatic prose of the horrors of war, "Satan Calls a Conference" by F. Bradford Stone '37. Of the ordinary prose articles, "Pagan Festival" by Elmer W. J. Schmitt '36 and "Out of Douche and Latin" by Charles Ehly '36 are equally timely, equally interesting, and equally well written. "College with a Purpose" by Dorothy Witmer '37 is provocative, but it is too short to present a complete consideration of the problem it considers.

The December Lantern reflects the successful efforts of its editorial staff, headed by Elizabeth McBride '36 to present an attractive and well-balanced group of prose and poetry to its readers. The difficulties of the task are suggested in the editorial, "A Challenge to All". As was said at the beginning of this review, new names do appear in this issue, but too many of them are also found in the editorial staff as well. The Lantern needs more manuscripts.
